

Privacy Policy

Last updated: July 17, 2025

This Privacy Policy explains how the Map Pro Extension ("we", "our", or "us") handles personal data when you use our application integrated with the monday.com platform.

1. Purpose of This Document

This Privacy Policy outlines the data handling practices of the Map Pro Extension. We are committed to protecting your privacy and ensuring transparency in how we use any information associated with your monday.com account.

2. Data We Do Not Collect

We do not collect or store any personal information from users. Our application does not access or process any user data such as names, emails, content, or any other personally identifiable information (PII) from your monday.com account or elsewhere.

3. API Keys (Optional Data)

The only data that may be stored by the application is an optional map provider API key (e.g., for services like Google Maps, etc.). This key is used solely to enable map functionality within the application.

- Storage: The API key is securely stored using monday.com's data storage mechanism.
- Usage: The key is only used for making map-related requests on your behalf.
- Visibility: The key is not shared with third parties, and we do not log or analyze any data from its usage.

4. Data Security

We follow best practices to ensure the security of the API key stored within monday's infrastructure. No data is transmitted to external servers outside of the user's monday.com environment, except to the map provider as required to serve map content.

5. Third-Party Services

The only third-party services involved are the optional map providers that users configure. These providers may have their own privacy policies, which users are responsible for reviewing.

Application uses these map providers:

- OpenLayers: <https://tile.openstreetmap.org/?/?/??.png>
- ArcGis: https://services.arcgisonline.com/ArcGIS/rest/services/World_Street_Map/MapServer/tile/?/?/?
